

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An organization information recording apparatus for recording organization structures which are formed by combining a plurality of acting organization objects is proposed wherein the organization information recording apparatus comprises an acting
5 organization object recording unit for individually recording the acting organization objects which equip with an input information, an output information, an auxiliary input information, and an auxiliary output information as properties, and an acting organization object mode designating unit including an input information designating unit, an output information designating unit, an auxiliary input information designating
10 unit, and an auxiliary output information designating unit for setting property of a specified object recorded in the acting organization object recording unit.